Friday, Eldredge & Clark is pleased to welcome three law students to the firm as part of its 2026 Fall Law Clerk Program.

The clerkship provides law students with hands-on experience across a variety of legal practice areas, including commercial litigation, corporate counseling and governance, medical malpractice, labor and employment, real estate, and more. Clerks will work directly with the firm partners, associates and administrative professionals while gaining exposure to the day-to-day practice of law.

Throughout the clerkship, participants will attend court proceedings, hearings, inspections, jury trials, Arkansas Bar Association events, networking opportunities, and pro bono activities. The clerkship is designed to provide practical experience while encouraging professional development and community involvement.

The 2026 Fall law clerks include:

Little Rock

Justin R. Maggerise – UALR Bowen School of Law

Isaac N. Evans – UALR Bowen School of Law

Rogers

Brock M. Conklin – University of Arkansas School of Law
